Why it's a Big Deal

People in need partner with Habitat for Humanity to build or improve a place they can call home. Future Habitat homeowners help build their own homes alongside volunteers like you and pay an affordable mortgage. With your help, Habitat homeowners achieve the strength, stability, and independence they need to build a better life for themselves and their families.

Meet our Future Homeowners

Janice Marshall

Janice is a single lady living in an unsafe neighborhood. In addition to plumbing and heating problems, her house lacks accommodations for Janice's mobility difficulties. She has always wanted her own home but didn't think she could afford it. When a friend told her that Habitat was taking applications, she thought, "This is my chance!" She is eager to have a place she can call her own...a place that's safe, comfortable, and affordable.

André is a single man who currently works for a local fast food restaurant and lives in subsidized housing. The apartment has leaked in the past and repairs were done carelessly. He's concerned about mold as a result. He has grandchildren that he would like to have a visit, but his present living space is too small to accommodate them. He looks forward to investing in his own home and having a place to feel established.

Tammie West

Tammie is a single woman with custody of her 9-year-old nephew. She works for the local school system and lives in a subsidized apartment. The apartment lacks adequate insulation and has plumbing issues that have damaged flooring and caused rot and mold. Her dream is to have a safe and healthy place to call home that fits into her budget. She's thankful that Habitat is making that dream come true!

Destiney is a single mom to a 4-year-old son. She works as a housekeeper at a local apartment complex. She was living in subsidized housing but recently moved back in with her mom to save money for her future Habitat home. She is anxious to have a backyard for her son to run and play in. She's seen how Habitat has changed people's lives and wants her son to have that same opportunity.

What is Habitat ReStore?

Habitat ReStores are nonprofit home improvement stores and donation centers. The items they sell are available to the public and similar to what you may see in other home good stores, such as a brand new box of tile you've been needing for your bathroom project or a vintage treasure you won't find anywhere else. However, Habitat ReStores are more than just resell stores.

The purpose of Habitat ReStores is to contribute to the work of Habitat for Humanity. When you support your local ReStore by shopping, donating, or volunteering, you are not only supporting your local community, you're also helping the mission to provide decent shelter to everyone around the world.
